Lloyd Carr
(Northern Michigan, 1968)
12th year as Michigan Head Coach
113-35 Overall Record at Michigan
75-21 Big Ten Record

Lloyd Carr is 11-1 in his 12th season as head coach of the nation's all-time winningest football program in 2006. He guided the Wolverines to a second place finish in the Big Ten with a 7-1 mark. Carr has been named a finalist for the Liberty Mutual Coach of the Year and the Eddie Robinson Award.

Carr is fifth among active Division I-A football coach with a .764 winning percentage. He has compiled a 113-35 overall record as head coach and has led the Wolverines to six 10-win seasons. He trails only Fielding H. Yost (165-29-10) and Bo Schembechler (194-48-5) in career victories at Michigan, and has an impressive 68-20 Big Ten Conference mark; he is the active career leader in Big Ten wins. Carr is the eighth coach in Big Ten history and the third in Michigan history, joining Fielding H. Yost and Schembechler, to claim five or more Big Ten Conference titles (1997, 1998, 2000, 2003 and 2004).

He has been a member of the Wolverine football staff for 27 years. Prior to being elevated to head coach, Carr said he thought he held the greatest assistant coaching job in the country, serving 15 years under Bo Schembechler (1980-89) and Gary Moeller (1990-94). Carr joined Schembechler's staff in 1980 as the defensive secondary coach, was the defensive coordinator for eight seasons, and then moved into the position of assistant head coach for the final five years before becoming head coach in 1995.

Carr has guided the school to a bowl game in each of his 11 seasons. He is the first Wolverine coach to win four straight bowl games, doing so at the 2001 Florida Citrus Bowl, 2000 Orange Bowl, 1999 Citrus Bowl and 1998 Rose Bowl. Michigan has been ranked in the Associated Press Top 25 for all but seven of Lloyd Carr's career games, including 64 times in the top 10. His first bowl appearance was in San Antonio in 1995 when the Wolverines played Texas A&M in the Alamo Bowl.

During the 2005 season, Carr became the third coach in Michigan history and 11th in Big Ten history to amass 100 victories at his institution. Carr joined Yost (165-29-10) and Schembechler (194-48-5) as the only Wolverine coaches to reach the century mark in career victories.

Wolverine teams under Carr's direction have continued the strong tradition of Michigan football.

U-M went back-to-back as Big Ten Champions and earned the school's 19th trip to the Rose Bowl following a 7-1 conference slate during the 2004 season. The Wolverines battled Texas to the wire in the 91st Rose Bowl game, losing 38-37 on a field goal at the buzzer. Michigan rallied from deficits in five games to claim victory, including a 45-37 triple overtime win over Michigan State, with 17 points in four-plus minutes to send the game into overtime. U-M was led by an All-America quartet consisting of David Baas, Braylon Edwards, Marlin Jackson and Ernest Shazor. Baas won the Rimington Trophy as the nation's outstanding center and Edwards claimed the Biletnikoff Award as the top wide receiver in college football. Tailback Mike Hart, the Big Ten Freshman of the Year, and quarterback Chad Henne stepped into the starting lineup as true freshmen. Henne became only the second quarterback in U-M history to start as a true freshman and the first signal caller in Big Ten history to lead a team to a conference crown during his rookie campaign.

The 2003 Wolverines showed perseverance as they ran the table with six straight conference wins to claim the Big Ten title and a berth in the 2004 Rose Bowl. Trailing 28-7 entering the fourth quarter at Minnesota, Michigan rallied for the greatest comeback victory in school history with 31 points in the final stanza to defeat the Gophers 38-35. The victory set the stage for the championship run as the Wolverines outscored the opposition by a 221 to 75 margin from the start of the fourth quarter against the Gophers through the thrilling 35-21 victory against No. 4 Ohio State that clinched the outright conference crown.

Michigan faced seven nationally ranked teams during the 2003 season, including wins against three top 10-ranked teams in their final four regular season contests. The Wolverines posted victories against its three rivals --

Notre Dame, Michigan State and Ohio State -- for the sixth time in school history during the same season. U-M was led by All-America tailback Chris Perry, a Heisman Trophy finalist, Doak Walker Award winner and Big Ten Offensive Player of the Year. Perry, quarterback John Navarre, right tackle Tony Pape, left guard Baas and wide receiver Edwards led a Wolverine offense with their All-Big Ten first team selections.

Michigan started and concluded the 2002 football season in exciting fashion. Philip Brabbs connected on a 44-yard field goal on the game's final play for a 31-29 season-opening win against Washington, while Chris Perry scored four touchdowns in the season-ending 38-30 victory over Florida in the Outback Bowl. The Wolverines claimed their fourth 10-win season under Carr (10-3) and ranked No. 9 in both final national polls. U-M finished the conference season in third place with a 6-2 mark and suffered its only Big Ten losses to co-champions Iowa and Ohio State. Michigan defeated Penn State for the sixth straight year in a thrilling 27-24 overtime win at Michigan Stadium, the first extra session game in 'Big House' history.

The 2001 season saw U-M hand Penn State its first home shutout in Joe Paterno's then 36-year coaching career, registering a 20-0 victory in Happy Valley, while defeating eventual Big Ten champion Illinois, 45-20. U-M earned its 27th consecutive bowl game appearance and finished the season with an 8-4 overall record.

During the 2000 campaign, Carr's squad claimed a share of the school's 40th conference crown with a thrilling 38-26 victory over Ohio State in Columbus. The Wolverines posted a 9-3 overall record, with all three setbacks coming by a total of seven points. Michigan finished the year with a No. 10-ranking in the USA Today/ESPN Coaches' poll and No. 11-ranking in the Associated Press poll after beating Auburn in the Florida Citrus Bowl.

Carr led Michigan to a 10-2 record in 1999, including an exciting Tom Brady led 35-34 overtime win against Alabama in the FedEx Orange Bowl. The Wolverines finished No. 5 in both the AP and USA Today/ESPN Coaches' polls and tied for second in the Big Ten Conference with a 6-2 record.

His 1998 Michigan squad rebounded from a 0-2 start to finish 10-3 and claim the program's 39th Big Ten Conference title. The Wolverines capped the season with a 45-31 victory over 11th-ranked Arkansas in the CompUSA Florida Citrus Bowl to ensure their second straight 10-win season. Carr led Michigan to eight consecutive wins and finished the year with victories in 10 of the last 11 games.

Michigan captured a Big Ten title and Rose Bowl victory behind the leadership of Carr in his third season at the helm. Carr and the Wolverines proved that excellence is a product of dedication, teamwork and execution; the direct result of which was Michigan's first national title in 49 years (1948 season).

Carr, who reached 25 wins faster than any current Big Ten coach, became just the second Big Ten coach to post an undefeated regular season record in just his third year of head coaching (Joe Paterno went 10-0 in 1968 but was not affiliated with the conference at that time). He also wrote himself into the NCAA record books, becoming just the seventh coach in NCAA history to have reached 29 wins in just three seasons of coaching.

In 1997, Carr put all the pieces together, posting the most impressive regular season campaign at U-M in more than 25 years. At the start of the season, coach Carr not only faced a schedule rated as one of the toughest in NCAA Division I-A, but also had the task of choosing a starting quarterback, while having to replace three All-Americans, four starters on defense and three starters on the offensive line.

Under Carr's steady hand, Michigan earned its first Big Ten title and Rose Bowl appearance in five seasons. With a 24-3 defeat of then No. 5 Colorado in the first game of the season, Michigan flexed its defensive muscles, giving fans a sneak peek of what to expect. Michigan remained perfect through its first three games, boosting Carr's September record to 10-0. Even with tough road

CARR AT A GLANCE

Born: July 30, 1945 in Hawkins County, Tennessee

College: Northern Michigan, 1968

Graduate Degree: Northern Michigan, 1970

Wife: Laurie

Children: Melissa, Brett, Jason, Ryan, Emily, and Jarrett

Playing Experience: An all-state quarterback in high school, Carr was a backup quarterback at Missouri for three years, including the 1966 Sugar Bowl championship team. Carr then transferred to Northern Michigan and quarterbacked the Wildcats to an undefeated season.

contests against Michigan State, Penn State and Wisconsin, the Wolverines remained focused.

The culmination of Michigan's 1997 regular season proved to be the most dramatic contest of them all, with Michigan defeating No. 4 Ohio State, 20-14, in front of the largest crowd in Michigan Stadium history at the time. With the victory, coach Carr became just the third U-M coach to defeat Ohio State in each of his first three games, following coaching legends Yost and Fritz Crisler.

Carr and his Wolverines reached the summit of their journey when they defeated No. 7 Washington State, 21-16, in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1. Two days later Michigan was named the Associated Press National Champion. A week later, the Wolverines were awarded the MacArthur Bowl by the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame and the Grantland Rice Trophy by the Football Writers Association of America, given annually to the nation's most outstanding football team.

Carr's leadership of the 1997 Wolverines earned him several national coaching honors, including the Walter Camp Football Foundation, American Football Coaches Association, Football News, Maxwell Football Club, Woody Hayes, and Paul "Bear" Bryant coach of the year awards. Carr became just the fourth Michigan coach to win coach of the year honors, behind Crisler (1947), Oosterbaan (1948) and Schembechler (1969).

Prior to being elevated to head coach, Carr said he thought he held the greatest assistant coaching job in the country, serving 15 years under Bo Schembechler (1980-89) and Moeller (1990-94). Carr joined Schembechler's staff in 1980 as defensive secondary coach, became defensive coordinator for eight seasons (1987-94), and then served the dual role as assistant head coach and defensive coordinator for the final five years (1990-94) before becoming head coach.

Carr moved into one of the nation's best head coaching positions on May 16, 1995, when then Michigan Director of Athletics Joe Roberson named him as the interim head coach of the Wolverines following the resignation of Moeller. On Nov. 13, 1995 Carr had the "interim" title removed. He is the 17th football coach in school history, but only the 10th since Yost made his debut in 1901.

Carr began his U-M head coaching tenure in dramatic fashion as his first game against Virginia provided the biggest comeback in Michigan history. The Wolverines trailed 17-0 with less than 12 minutes remaining, but came back to win with a touchdown pass on the final play of the game for an 18-17 victory.

The 1995 regular season culminated in a 31-23 home win over second-ranked and undefeated Ohio State in a game considered one of the biggest triumphs in school history.

The Wolverines finished the 1996 season with an appearance in their 22nd consecutive bowl game and ranked No. 20 in the national rankings. Highlights from Carr's second season included a road win against Colorado and home field victories against UCLA and arch-rival Michigan State. Michigan closed out the regular season with yet another win over an undefeated and second-ranked Ohio State team, this time by a score of 13-9 at Ohio Stadium.

In addition to his work on the football field, Carr is involved in the University, community and coaching fraternity. He has been active in support of women's athletics, endowing a women's sports scholarship that is presented annually to a female student-athlete at U-M. He initiated the Women's Football Academy that donates all proceeds to the University of Michigan Comprehensive Cancer Center. Carr was also the chairperson for the WJR/Special Olympics Golf Outing. He and his wife, Laurie, were also co-chairs of the 2002 Washtenaw County United Way Campaign. Carr served on the NCAA Rules Committee and was a member of the American Football Coaches Association Board of Trustees.

A three-sport athlete at Riverview High School, Carr was an all-state quarterback (1962) in football. He enrolled at Missouri for three years and was the backup quarterback on the Tigers' 1966 Sugar Bowl championship team.

Carr transferred to Northern Michigan University and quarterbacked the Wildcats to an undefeated season. He graduated from NMU in 1968 with his B.S. in education. Carr went on to earn his masters degree in education administration at NMU in 1970 under a Mott Fellowship.

Carr began his coaching career as a high school assistant at Nativity High in Detroit (1968-69) and at Belleville (Mich.) High School from 1970 to 1973. He was head coach at John Glenn High School (Westland, Mich.) from 1973-75, earning Regional Class A Coach of the Year honors in 1975 following an 8-1 season.

Carr's collegiate coaching career started with two seasons at Eastern Michigan (1976-77), followed by two seasons at Illinois (1978-79) before arriving at U-M.

In 1997, Carr was inducted into both the Catholic League and Northern Michigan University Halls of Fame. He was inducted into the Jewish Sports Hall of Fame during the 2004 season.

Carr is married to the former Laurie McCartney. They have six children: Melissa, Brett, Jason, Ryan, Emily, and Jarrett, as well as 10 grandchildren: Tyler John McCartney, Brendan Massey McCartney, Drew Elizabeth Vigo, Austin Patrick McCartney, Colin Lloyd McCartney, Sydney Ann Vigo, Ethan Michael McCartney, Casey Carr Vigo, Curtis Jason (C.J.) Lloyd Carr and Noah Thomas McCartney. Jason was a quarterback at U-M and Emily lettered in volleyball.

Carr Season-by-Season

Record: 9-4, 5-3 Big Ten (T-Third)

Final Associated Press Ranking: 17

Lloyd Carr's first season as Michigan head coach proved to be a season to remember, beginning with Michigan's then biggest comeback in school history — an 18-17 last-second victory over Virginia — and ending with one of the school's biggest upsets, as Michigan defeated second-ranked Ohio State, 31-23, behind Tim Biakabutuka's 313 rushing yards. Biakabutuka proved to be the shining star of the season, setting single season records for rushing attempts (303) and rushing yards (1818), while defensive tackle Jason Horn and offensive tackle Jon Runyan both earned All-America honors. Michigan finished tied for third place in the Big Ten, earning a trip to the Alamo Bowl against Texas A&M. The Wolverines lost a hard-fought defensive battle to the Aggies, 22-20.

1996

Record: 8-4, 5-3 Big Ten (T-Fifth)

Final Associated Press Ranking: 20

Coach Carr's sophomore season proved similar to his first campaign in Maize and Blue as Michigan once again finished 5-3 in the Big Ten and earned a trip to a postseason bowl game. After running its record to 7-1, Michigan lost to Purdue, 9-3, in what would be remembered as one of Purdue's greatest upsets. Following another difficult loss to Penn State, Michigan saved its best performance of the regular season for last, defeating Ohio State, 13-9, in front of a stunned Ohio Stadium crowd. Michigan, for the second straight year, had beaten an undefeated, second-ranked Ohio State team. With the victory, Michigan earned a trip to the Outback Bowl in Tampa, where the Wolverines lost another hard-fought defensive battle, this time to Alabama, 17-14. After the season, four Wolverines were awarded All-America honors: defensive tackle William Carr, line-backer Jarrett Irons, center Rod Payne and defensive back Charles Woodson.

1997

Record: 12-0, 8-0 Big Ten (First)

Final Associated Press Ranking: 1

"Third time's a charm" never rang more true than in Lloyd Carr's third season as Michigan's head coach. Entering the year with gaping holes to fill on both the offensive and defensive lines, skeptics were critical of Michigan's chances to escape its string of four-loss seasons. The critics were quieted, week by week, as Michigan put together its most impressive regular season since going 11-0 in 1971. Beginning with a 28-3 victory over seventh-ranked Colorado, and ending with a nailbiting defeat of fourth-ranked Ohio State, 20-14, Michigan followed the lead of its top-ranked defense all the way to the Rose Bowl. The perfect regular season included big road victories over No. 14 Michigan State, No. 23 Wisconsin and No. 2 Penn State, as well as close calls at home against long-time rival Notre Dame (21-14) and No. 15 Iowa (28-24). The final chapter of Michigan's storied season ended with a 21-16 victory over No. 7 Washington State in the Rose Bowl and subsequent selection as the national champions by the Associated Press.

1998*Record: 10-3, 7-1 Big Ten (T-First)Final Associated Press Ranking: 12

Coach Carr captured his second Big Ten title as Michigan ended the season with a Citrus Bowl victory and a second consecutive 10-win season. The Wolverines proved to be a resilient team, bouncing back from an 0-2 start with eight straight victories, including November wins of 27-0 against Penn State and 27-10 over Wisconsin. Michigan's Rose Bowl hopes were dashed with a loss at Ohio State, but the Wolverines ended the season strong with a 48-17 win at Hawaii and a 45-31 victory over Arkansas in the Citrus Bowl. Senior offensive tackle and two-time team captain Jon Jansen ended his career with a school-record 50-consecutive starts, earning first-team All-America and Big Ten Offensive Lineman of the Year honors.

1999Record: 10-2, 6-2 Big Ten (T-Second)Final Associated Press Ranking: 5

Tri-captains Tom Brady, Steve Hutchinson and Rob Renes led the Wolverines to their third straight 10-win season and a 35-34 overtime victory against Alabama in the FedEx Orange Bowl. Michigan jumped out to a 5-0 record and to No. 3 in the polls before losing a pair of close outcomes to Michigan State (34-31) and Illinois (35-29). The Wolverines rebounded with four straight wins to close the regular season, including a 31-27 comeback against No. 6 Penn State and a 24-17 victory over Ohio State. Michigan made things exciting for Carr all year as nine of the 12 games were decided on the final possession of the game. Brady was named the team's MVP, while Renes and Hutchinson picked up All-America recognition. Renes became only the third player in school history to receive first team All-America and Academic All-America recognition in the same season. Michigan capped an exciting year by erasing a pair of 14-point deficits, beating No. 5 Alabama in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day (35-34 in overtime).

2000Record: 9-3, 6-2 Big Ten (T-First)Final Associated Press Ranking: 11

The Wolverines captured a share of their third Big Ten Conference title in four seasons with a 38-26 victory at Ohio State on the final weekend of the regular season. Michigan won its 800th game against Wisconsin, pitched back-to-back conference shutouts against Indiana and Michigan State, and erased a 9-0 deficit in Columbus en route to the conference crown. Left guard and two-time captain Steve Hutchinson earned consensus All-America honors and was a finalist for the Lombardi Award. Anthony Thomas, a Doak Walker Award finalist, David Terrell and Jeff Backus received All-America recognition, while Larry Foote joined the group as All-Big Ten first team selections. The Wolverines won their fourth consecutive bowl game in the 2001 Florida Citrus Bowl, beating Auburn, 31-28 (Jan. 1).

2001Record: 8-4, 6-2 Big Ten (Second)Final Associated Press Ranking: 20

Michigan finished the 2001 football season almost the way it finished the 2000 season. For the second consecutive year, the Wolverines went 6-2 in the Big Ten and 8-3 heading to the Citrus Bowl in Orlando. However, they could not duplicate the 2000 team's victory over Auburn as they fell to SEC power Tennessee. Michigan defeated eventual Big Ten champion Illinois, 45-20, and handed Joe Paterno the first home shutout of his 36 year coaching career, a 20-0 victory at Penn State. Senior linebacker Larry Foote highlighted the year as a first-team All-Big Ten selection and the Big Ten Defensive Player of the Year. Marquise Walker was named the Bo Schembechler Team MVP after setting numerous receiving records, most notably the game, season and career reception marks as well as the single-season yardage mark. Foote and Walker were named first-team All-Americans.

2002Record: 10-3, 6-2 Big Ten (Third)Final Associated Press Ranking: 9

Leadership from 19 senior players, including co-captains Victor Hobson and Bennie Joppru, propelled the Wolverines to their fourth 10-win campaign in Carr's eight seasons. Eight of Michigan's 12 regular-season opponents participated in bowl games, and all three U-M defeats came to New Year's Day bowl teams. The season started with a thrilling 31-29 victory against No. 11 Washington as Philip Brabbs connected on a 44-yard field goal as time expired, and the 10-win campaign ended with a 38-30 win over Florida in the Outback Bowl behind a four touchdown performance from tailback Chris Perry. Michigan had six other games decided by eight points or less, including a 27-24 victory against No. 15 Penn State in the first overtime game played in Michigan Stadium history. The conference season concluded with the annual "Big Game" that saw Michigan lead at the half and until the final five minutes against eventual national champion

Ohio State before losing 14-9 as the Wolverines' bid for victory was stopped with a goal line interception as time expired. The Wolverines finished No. 9 in both the Associated Press and ESPN/USA Today Coaches' polls. David Baas, Hobson, Marlin Jackson and Tony Pape earned All-Big Ten first team honors. Quarterback John Navarre set nine U-M season records and B.J. Askew was named the Bo Schembechler Most Valuable Player.

2003Record: 10-3, 7-1 Big Ten (First)Final Associated Press Ranking: 6

Lloyd Carr directed the Wolverines to the school's 41st Big Ten title, compiling a 10-3 overall record and a 7-1 Big Ten Conference mark. Trailing 28-7 entering the fourth quarter at Minnesota, Michigan rallied for the greatest comeback victory in school history with 31 points in the final stanza to defeat the Gophers 38-35. U-M won six straight conference games to end the regular season and outscored the opposition by a 221 to 75 margin from the start of the fourth quarter at Minnesota. Michigan faced seven nationally ranked teams along the way, including wins against three top 10-ranked teams in their final four regular season contests. The Wolverines capped the regular season with a 35-21 victory against No. 4 Ohio State to claim the outright conference crown, Carr's fourth in nine seasons as head coach. U-M returned to the Rose Bowl for the first time since the 1997 season, losing 28-14 to No. 1 Southern California, the eventual Associated Press national champion. Michigan posted victories against its three rivals -- Notre Dame, Michigan State and Ohio State -- for the sixth time in school history during the same season. The Wolverines were led by All-America tailback Chris Perry, a Heisman Trophy finalist, Doak Walker Award winner and Big Ten Offensive Player of the Year. Perry, quarterback John Navarre, right tackle Tony Pape, left guard David Baas and wide receiver Braylon Edwards led a Wolverine offense with their All-Big Ten first team selections.

2004Record: 9-3, 7-1 Big Ten (T-1st)Final Associated Press Ranking: 14

Michigan claimed the Big Ten title for the second straight season and returned to the Rose Bowl, compiling a 9-3 record and a 7-1 conference mark. The Wolverines participated in their ninth consecutive Jan. 1 Bowl, losing to Texas 38-37. The big highlight for the season was Michigan's 45-37 triple overtime win over rival Michigan State. Trailing 27-10 with 6:28 left in the fourth quarter, Michigan rallied for 17 points in four and a half minutes to tie the game and send it to overtime. Three overtimes later, Michigan's defense stood tall, breaking up a fourth down pass to preserve the win. Michigan came from behind to win five of its games this season. The Wolverines won their first seven Big Ten games, on their way to the Big Ten crown, Carr's fifth in the last eight seasons as head coach. Michigan was led by Biletznikoff winner and Big Ten Offensive Player of the Year Braylon Edwards, center David Baas, cornerback Marlin Jackson, and a pair of true freshman, Big Ten Freshman of the Year, running back Mike Hart, and quarterback Chad Henne, who became only the second quarterback in U-M history to start in all the games as a true freshman. Baas was the co-recipient of the Rimington Trophy as the nation's outstanding center.

2005Record: 7-5, 5-3 Big Ten (T-3rd)Final Associated Press Ranking: Not Ranked

The Wolverines battled to the end in nearly every game during the season, with six of its eight conference tilts decided in the last few seconds of regulation or overtime. Opening the year ranked third in the nation, Michigan went 3-3 and dropped out of the top 25 for the first time since 1998. The Wolverines had their Big Ten opener streak snapped at Wisconsin but rebounded for an overtime victory at No. 11 Michigan State. After a last-second home loss to Minnesota, U-M claimed a dramatic 27-25 victory over undefeated and No. 8 Penn State on the game's final play. The Wolverines followed up with a thrilling 23-20 overtime victory at Iowa, snapping the Hawkeyes' 22-game home winning streak, that provided Lloyd Carr with his 100th victory as Michigan head coach. Michigan stretched its win streak to four late into November before heart-wrenching losses to Ohio State and Nebraska in the Alamo Bowl. Wide receiver Jason Avant, defensive tackle Gabe Watson, and offensive linemen Matt Lentz and Adam Stenavich led the Wolverines, with each garnering All-Big Ten first team accolades. Avant added second-team Academic All-America honors.

Assistant Head Coach / Wide Receivers

Erik Campbell

Erik Campbell is in his 12th year as a member of the Michigan staff, working with the wide receivers and returners. He was elevated to assistant head coach prior to the 2003 season.

Campbell has coached three All-Americans - David Terrell, Marquise Walker and Braylon Edwards - and has had four players named the Bo Schembechler MVP of the football team - Jason Avant, Edwards, Walker and Tai Streets. Campbell has had a 1,000-yard receiver each of the past eight seasons, including Biletnikoff winner Braylon Edwards for three straight seasons (2002-04). Campbell has nine former wide receivers currently in the National Football League.

A 1988 Michigan graduate, Campbell lettered four seasons (1984-85-86-87) with the Wolverines. He played three years as a defensive back, and his sophomore season as a flanker. Over Campbell's career, U-M was 35-13-1 and won the 1986 Big Ten championship.

Campbell began coaching as a student assistant with Michigan in 1988. He began his career as an assistant at Navy (1989-90), and was at Ball State (1991-93) and Syracuse (1994) before joining the Wolverine staff in 1995.

Campbell is a native of Gary, Ind., where he was an all-state football and All-America track selection at Roosevelt High School. He helped RHS to back-to-back state track and field championships, and is a member of both the Indiana High School Track and Field and Football Hall of Fames.

Campbell resides in Ann Arbor.

Defensive Coordinator / Safeties

Ron English

Ron English is in his fourth season with the Michigan football program and his first year as the team's defensive coordinator. English coaches the safeties after spending his initial three seasons coaching the defensive secondary.

He was named the Rivals.com National Defensive Coordinator of the Year in 2006. His squad leads the nation in rushing defense while ranking tied for third in sacks, sixth in total defense and eighth in scoring defense.

English became the first coach in NCAA history to have two defensive backs earn consensus All-America honors in the same season as Marlin Jackson and Ernest Shazor collected the honor in 2004.

English spent five seasons at Arizona State, helping it to three bowl appearances. He coached the secondary all five years, two years with the cornerbacks and the first three seasons with the safeties.

English also tutored the secondary for two seasons at San Diego State (1996-97) and served as the outside linebackers coach at Northern Arizona (1996). His first stint at ASU was as a graduate assistant handling the defensive line (1994-95) after beginning his collegiate coaching career as the defensive backs coach at Mt. San Antonio College (1993). He also coached one season at Ganesha High School (1992).

English was a four-year letterman (1987-90) and senior starter at safety for California-Berkeley where he played in the 1990 Copper Bowl against Wyoming. He also started on special teams all four seasons.

A 1990 Cal graduate with a bachelor's degree in communications, English earned his master's degree in education administration from Arizona State in 1995.

He is married to the former Sophia Woodard, and they are the parents of two sons, Simon and Seth, and a daughter, Sydney.

Offensive Coordinator / Tight Ends

Mike DeBord

Mike DeBord is in his 11th season with the Michigan football program. He returned to the role of offensive coordinator in 2006 after spending two seasons coordinating the special teams and recruiting efforts.

In his second stint with the program, DeBord spent four seasons as head football coach at Central Michigan University (2000-03).

He was first appointed to the Michigan staff in June 1992 as the offensive tackles and tight ends coach. DeBord was elevated to assistant head coach for two years (1995-96) before Carr promoted him to the position of offensive coordinator and tackles and tight ends coach in February 1997.

He served as the offensive coordinator for three seasons with the Wolverines, including three straight Jan. 1 bowl victories in the Rose, Citrus and Orange Bowls. Michigan claimed the 1997 national championship during his first season as offensive coordinator, and capped his initial stint on the staff with a dramatic 35-34 overtime victory against Alabama in the Orange Bowl.

A native of Muncie, Ind., DeBord was a four-year letterman on the offensive line at Manchester College. He gained all-conference and all-district honors playing both center and tackle. DeBord earned his bachelor's degree from Manchester in 1978 and received a master's degree from Ball State in 1981. He was inducted into the state of Indiana Football Hall of Fame in 2004.

DeBord began his collegiate coaching career at Franklin College in 1982-83. He was also an assistant coach at Fort Hayes (1984-86), Eastern Illinois (1987-88), Ball State (1989), Colorado State (1990-91) and Northwestern (1992) before joining the Michigan staff.

DeBord and his wife, Deb, reside in Saline. They have two sons, Tyler and Kyle.

Associate Head Coach / Running Backs

Fred Jackson

A member of the football staff since 1992, Fred Jackson is in his 15th season as an assistant coach for U-M. He was elevated to associate head coach prior to the 2003 season after serving six seasons as assistant head coach. He continues his responsibilities as the running backs coach and works with the kick returners.

Jackson has coached three Doak Walker Award finalists, Mike Hart (2006), Anthony Thomas (2000) and 2003 winner Chris Perry. Perry was a finalist for the 2003 Heisman Memorial Trophy and Hart finished fifth in the 2006 balloting. Perry gained All-America honors and was the Big Ten Offensive Player of the Year. Jackson was critical to the success of 2004 Big Ten Freshman of the Year Hart, the first true freshman in school history to gain 1,000 rushing yards.

Three Jackson-coached running backs have been selected in the first round of the NFL Draft: Tyrone Wheatley (1995), Tshimanga Biakabutuka (1996) and Chris Perry (2004), with two-time Citrus Bowl MVP Anthony Thomas being an early second round draft pick of the Chicago Bears (2001). Nine of his running backs at Michigan have played in the NFL.

Jackson was the 2001 American Football Coaches Association Assistant Coach of the Year for Division I-A. He was a finalist for the 2000 Broyles Award, given annually to the nation's assistant coach of the year.

Before joining the U-M staff, Jackson spent one season as the quarterback coach at Vanderbilt (1991). He got his start in the college ranks at Toledo (1979-81), and held assistant posts with Wisconsin (1982-86), Navy (1987), South Carolina (1988) and Purdue (1989-90).

A native of Baton Rouge, La., Jackson was an all-conference quarterback at Jackson State (Miss.). He earned his bachelor of science degree from Jackson State in 1972, and added a master's degree from Michigan in 1975.

Jackson and his wife, Teresa, have two sons, Jeremy and Joshua.

Cornerbacks Coach

Ron Lee

Ron Lee is in his first season as an assistant coach with the Michigan football program. He coaches the cornerbacks and work with the punt return team.

Lee's first crew was led by Leon Hall, the team's career pass breakup leader and a consensus All-America. Hall was a finalist for both the Thorpe Award and Bronko Nagurski Trophy.

Lee joined the staff after spending three years as the defensive backs coach at the University of Wisconsin (2003-05).

As the defensive backs coach for the Badgers, Lee coached safety Jim Leonhard to first-team All-Big Ten and All-America honors in 2003 and 2004.

Prior to his appointment with the Badgers, Lee was the defensive coordinator and defensive backs coach at San Jose State (2001-02). He spent eight seasons at Colorado State (1993-2000), winning five conference titles during that stretch, and helped the Rams lead the nation in turnover margin during the 1997 season. He coached Colorado State's Greg Myers, the winner of the 1995 Jim Thorpe Award as the nation's best defensive back. Myers also earned All-America honors on the field and in the classroom.

Lee also spent a year each at Idaho (1992) and Portland State (1991), helping coach conference title squads at both institutions. He was a graduate assistant coach at Miami (Fla.) during the 1989-90 seasons. Lee was a member of the Hurricanes' 1989 national championship staff.

A native of Tulare, Calif., Lee earned a bachelor's degree from Washington State in 1989. He was a four-year letterman as a defensive back (1985-88) for the Cougars and led the Pac-10 Conference in fumbles forced in 1986.

Lee and his wife, Eileen, have five children: Aubree, Jamison, Kayla, Christopher and Madison.

Quarterbacks Coach

Scot Loeffler

Scot Loeffler is in his fifth year as an assistant coach at U-M. He is responsible for coaching the quarterbacks.

Loeffler has developed a pair of All-Big Ten signal callers, first-team selection John Navarre (2003) and current quarterback Chad Henne (2006). Navarre left U-M as the school's all-time career leader in every passing category and is current being chased by Henne.

Loeffler returned to his alma mater in 2002 after spending two years (2000-01) as the quarterbacks coach at Central Michigan under current Wolverine coach Mike DeBord.

He spent seven years with the Michigan program (1993-99) prior to his stint with the Chippewas, and was the primary backup to Todd Collins in 1995, seeing his only career action in the 1995 homecoming game against Minnesota. A shoulder injury cut his playing career short, but Loeffler stayed with the program and served as a student assistant in 1996-97.

In 1998, Loeffler graduated with a degree in history and political science. He stayed with the Wolverines as an offensive graduate assistant during the 1998 and 1999 seasons.

A native of Barberton, Ohio, Loeffler was a two-year starter for Barberton High School at the quarterback position. He set school records in career passing yards (4,226) and touchdowns (30).

Loeffler and his wife, Cristie, reside in Ann Arbor, with their son, Luke. Cristie is a U-M alumna who ran cross country and track.

Offensive Line Coach

Andy Moeller

In his seventh year at Michigan, Andy Moeller handles the offensive line after spending his first two seasons coaching the tight ends.

He has coached 11 All-Big Ten first team selections in the past five seasons including three first-team all-conference players in 2004. David Baas, a three-time All-Big Ten first team selection, was the 2004 Big Ten Offensive Lineman of the Year, shared the Rimington Award as the nation's top center and earned consensus All-America honors. Jake Long earned

All-America honors in 2006 after being named the Big Ten Offensive Lineman of the Year and center Mark Bihl was a finalist for the Rimington Trophy.

Moeller was a member of the Missouri staff for six seasons, coaching the offensive line the final three years. He also coached the tight ends and tackles and co-coordinated special teams. Prior to Missouri, Moeller coached six years at the U.S. Military Academy and spent one year as a graduate assistant coach at Indiana.

Moeller was a four-year letterman (1983-86) and two-year starter at line-backer for the Wolverines. As a senior, he was co-captain of Michigan's 1987 Rose Bowl team, earning All-Big Ten first team accolades after leading the team with 138 tackles.

Moeller is the son of former Michigan head coach Gary Moeller. He graduated from Michigan in 1987 with a bachelor of arts degree in economics and communications.

He and his wife, Molly, have four children: Charlie, Nick, Olivia and Melanie.

Defensive Line Coach

Steve Stripling

Steve Stripling is in his second season as the defensive line coach for the Wolverines. He has spent 20 years of his coaching career in the Big Ten, working almost exclusively on the defensive side of the ball.

Stripling's 2006 defensive line was been key to the Wolverines' top-ranked rushing defense nationally, spearheaded by LaMarr Woodley, the Lombardi and Ted Hendricks Award winner.

He came to Ann Arbor after spending two seasons mentoring the defensive line at Michigan State. Prior to his appointment in East Lansing, Stripling coached the defensive line for two seasons at Louisville (2001-02).

Stripling is quite familiar with the Big Ten, spending four years as the outside linebackers coach and recruiting coordinator for Glen Mason at Minnesota (1997-2000). Stripling spent 13 seasons under Bill Mallory at Indiana (1984-96), coaching both the offensive and defensive lines for six years apiece. He was the defensive coordinator and linebackers coach for the Hoosiers during the 1996 season, and also worked with the placekickers during his tenure in Bloomington.

Stripling coached the offensive line at Northern Illinois (1980-83) and served as recruiting coach at North Carolina (1979). He also had a two-year stint as a graduate assistant coach at his alma mater, Colorado (1977-78).

A two-year starter at left guard for the Buffaloes, Stripling spent five years in the program and participated in three bowl games. He earned both his bachelor's (1976) and master's degrees from Colorado. Stripling signed a contract with the NFL's Atlanta Falcons upon graduation in 1976.

He and his wife, the former Gayle Truckenbrod, have three children: Christy, Cody and Chad.

Linebackers Coach

Steve Szabo

Steve Szabo is in his first season with the Michigan football program and 38th overall as a football coach. Szabo is responsible for the linebacker corps.

He joined the staff after spending the previous 12 seasons in the National Football League. Szabo was the defensive backs coach with the Buffalo Bills the past two seasons (2004-05). Prior to his stint in Buffalo, Szabo worked with the New England Patriots (2003) and the Jacksonville Jaguars (1994-2002).

Before joining the professional ranks, Szabo was the defensive coordinator at Boston College for three seasons (1991-93).

Szabo was head coach at Edinboro University for three seasons (1985-87) and was named Coach of the Year in the small college division of Western Pennsylvania by the Pittsburgh Press in 1986.

After his head coaching stint at Edinboro, Szabo spent the 1988 season as an assistant coach at Northern Iowa. He served as defensive coordinator at Colorado State for two seasons (1989-90).

Szabo spent 25 years in the college ranks, with stints as an assistant coach at Johns Hopkins, Toledo, Syracuse, Iowa State, Western Michigan and Big Ten rivals Ohio State (1979-81) and Iowa (1971-73).

A halfback and defensive back at the U.S. Naval Academy (1961-64), Szabo played alongside Hall of Fame quarterback Roger Staubach. He also played midfield on three National Championship lacrosse teams at the Naval Academy (1963-65) before being stationed in Quantico (1965-69) and serving a year in Vietnam.

Szabo and his wife, Patti, have one son, Zack. He has two adult children, Christine and Mike. Christine is a former U-M cross country and track runner who earned All-America honors twice (1993-94). Mike is a NFL scout with the Carolina Panthers.

Weight Training and Conditioning

Mike Gittleson

A pioneer in the field, Mike Gittleson is in his 29th season as the strength and conditioning coach for the Michigan football program. He was appointed the athletic department's first strength and conditioning coach in 1978 and currently oversees the day-to-day strength and conditioning program for the student-athletes.

He was recognized by the Professional Football Strength and Conditioning Coaches Society as the 2003 National Collegiate Football Strength and Conditioning Coach of the Year.

Gittleson maintains the overall training and conditioning of the football program in one of the finest facilities in the country. He has developed a unique and scientific approach to Michigan's conditioning program, tailoring each program to the individual player in order to provide the maximum physical output and the prevention of injuries.

A native of Manchester, N.H., Gittleson earned degrees from the University of New Hampshire (1975) and Plymouth State College (1977). He graduated summa cum laude with a 3.9 grade point average and was named the outstanding physical education student in his class at Plymouth State. Gittleson also lettered in three sports, football, wrestling and track at Plymouth State and won the state weightlifting championship.

A Vietnam veteran, he later came to Michigan and completed a master's degree in exercise science (1980) and earned the prestigious Paul Hunsicker Award as an outstanding graduate student at the University.

An adjunct lecturer in Sports Management and Communication for the Division of Kinesiology, Gittleson was honored with the distinction of becoming an "Honorary 'M' Man" in 1997.

Gittleson is married to the former Sandra Szymanski. He has two sons, Matthew and Casey and two daughters, KayLee and Josie Rose. The family resides in Ann Arbor.

Weight Training and Conditioning

Kevin Tolbert

Kevin Tolbert is in his sixth year as a strength and conditioning coach with the Michigan football program. Tolbert, who specializes in developing team speed, joined the staff prior to the 2001 Florida Citrus Bowl victory against Auburn.

He came to Michigan after spending three years at the University of Miami (Fla.), working with the football, basketball and soccer programs. Prior to working with the Hurricanes, Tolbert spent 10 years as a general manager and personal trainer at Mainline Health & Fitness (1988-98). He worked as the head trainer/conditioning specialist at Ken Leistner's Training before joining the staff at Mainline Health and Fitness. While there Tolbert directed the overall strength and conditioning of numerous athletes including 1996 Olympic gold medalist in the 400-hurdles Derrick Adkins. He was a volunteer strength and conditioning coach with the NFL's Philadelphia Eagles (1996-97).

Tolbert earned his bachelor of science degree in 1981 from the United States Naval Academy. Tolbert, 47, was born September 11, 1958 in St. Albans, N.Y. He and his wife, Margaret (Meg), reside in Saline with their four children: Kimberly, Kaitlin, Courtney and Matthew.

Graduate Assistant / Defense

Mark Elder

Mark Elder is in his second year with the University of Michigan football program. He is the defensive graduate assistant after handling quality control in 2005. He worked with members of the Wolverine coaching staff on video needs last year.

A native of Cincinnati, Ohio, Elder spent the 2004 season as defensive coordinator and linebacker coach at Wayne State University.

Elder was defensive coordinator and linebackers coach at Iona in 2003 and served as linebackers coach at Lehigh in 2002. He began his career as a graduate assistant coach at Akron (2000-01).

A 2000 graduate of Case Western Reserve University earning his undergraduate degree in economics, Elder was a three-year starter as a defensive back and was a three-time all-conference performer. He served as a co-captain during his senior year and led the league in interceptions. Elder earned his master's in education at Akron in 2001.

A 1995 graduate of Sycamore High School in Cincinnati, Ohio, Elder is single and resides in Ann Arbor.

Quality Control

Kurt Anderson

Kurt Anderson is in his first year in charge of quality control with the Michigan football program. He will assist members of the defensive coaching staff with video.

Anderson was working as the offensive tackles and tight ends coach at Indiana State University prior to accepting the position at Michigan.

A two-year letterman along the offensive line (2000-01) for the Wolverines, Anderson started 12 career games at center. He received the Hugh R. Rader Jr. Memorial Award as the team's top offensive lineman and was selected All-Big Ten honorable mention by the conference coaches following the 2001 season. Anderson began his career as a defensive tackle but switched to the offensive line midway through his red-shirt sophomore year.

Following graduation, Anderson was a rookie free agent with the Arizona Cardinals in 2002. He spent three seasons as a coordinator and linebackers coach at his alma mater, Glenbrook South High School in Glenview, Ill.

Anderson graduated from the University of Michigan in 2001 with a degree in sports management and communication from the Division of Kinesiology.

He is the brother of former Wolverine All-American linebacker Erick Anderson, the 1991 Butkus Award winner and a Michigan captain.

Anderson is single and resides in Ann Arbor.

Graduate Assistant / Offensive Line

Terry Heffernan

Terry Heffernan is in his second season with the Michigan football program. He continues to assist the Wolverines' offensive coaching staff, working primarily with offensive line coach Andy Moeller.

Prior to joining the Michigan staff, Heffernan spent the 2004 season as a graduate assistant working with the defensive line at the University of Louisville. The Cardinals finished sixth in the final AP polls after winning the Conference USA title and beating Boise State in the Liberty Bowl. He spent the 2003 season as the offensive line coach at Cumberland University.

Heffernan was a three-year letterman and two-year starter at center for the University of Dayton. He earned All-Pioneer Football League academic honors twice. He was a member of four consecutive conference championship teams, won a pair of title games, and finished his career with a 15-1 league record over four years (35-9 overall record).

Heffernan graduated from Dayton in 2003 with a Bachelor of Arts degree, majoring in communications.

A member of the American Football Coaches Association, Heffernan is single and resides in Ann Arbor.

Quality Control

Shane Day

Shane Day is in his first year in charge of quality control with the Michigan football program. He will assist members of the offensive coaching staff with video.

Prior to joining the Michigan staff, Day spent four seasons coaching at Auburn Riverside High School in Auburn, Washington. He coached the wide receivers (2001) and quarterbacks (2002) during his first two years. Day continued as the quarterbacks mentor his final two seasons and added the responsibility as offensive coordinator (2003-04).

Day graduated from Kansas State University in 1999 with a degree in English. He lettered in football as a wide receiver at Rhodes College in Memphis, Tenn. In addition, Day played shortstop and outfield on the baseball team.

Day is single and resides in Ann Arbor.

University of Michigan President

Mary Sue Coleman

Mary Sue Coleman has led the University of Michigan since being appointed its 13th president in August 2002.

As president, she has unveiled several major initiatives that will have an impact on future generations of students, the intellectual life of the campus, and society at large. These include campus initiatives that will examine student residential life, the interdisciplinary richness of the U-M, ethics in our society, and issues related to health care.

Under her leadership, the University has launched "The Michigan Difference," an ambitious capital campaign for the future of the institution. With a goal of $2.5 billion, this campaign will enhance programs across the campus, including new scholarships and fellowships for students and endowed chairs for faculty members. She also has announced a groundbreaking partnership between the University and Google, which will enable the public to search the text of the University's seven million volume library and will open the way to universal access and the preservation of recorded human knowledge.

In defending admissions policies as the University prevailed at the U.S. Supreme Court in 2003, President Coleman has become a national spokesperson on the educational value of affirmative action and diverse perspectives in the classroom.

Her extensive leadership positions in higher education include serving on the Association of American Universities Executive Committee, the Internet2 Board of Directors, the National Collegiate Athletic Association Board of Directors, and the Knight Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics.

Elected to the Institute of Medicine in 1997, President Coleman also is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. She co-chaired a major policy study of the Institute of Medicine, examining the consequences of uninsurance, and has become a nationally recognized expert on the issue.

As a biochemist, Dr. Coleman built a distinguished research career through her research on the immune system and malignancies. She authored numerous articles on her findings and directed funded research projects supported by a variety of federal agencies. At the University, she holds the appointments of professor of biological chemistry in the Medical School and professor of chemistry in the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts.

For 19 years she was a member of the biochemistry faculty at the University of Kentucky. Her work in the sciences led her to administrative appointments at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the University of New Mexico, where she served as provost and vice president for academic affairs. From 1995-2002, Dr. Coleman was president of the University of Iowa.

President Coleman is a trustee of the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation and the Gerald R. Ford Foundation. She serves on the boards of directors of Johnson & Johnson and the Meredith Corporation.

She earned her undergraduate degree in chemistry from Grinnell College and her doctorate in biochemistry from the University of North Carolina. She holds honorary doctorates from Grinnell College, Luther College, the University of Kentucky, Albion College, Dartmouth College, Shanghai Jiao Tong University and Northeastern University, and a distinguished alumnus award from the University of North Carolina.

President Coleman and her husband, Dr. Kenneth Coleman, a political scientist specializing in Latin America, live in the historic President's House on the University campus. Their son, Jonathan, is a portfolio manager in Denver, Colo.

University of Michigan Athletic Director

Bill Martin

Bill Martin was appointed interim Director of Intercollegiate Athletics on March 3, 2000, and was named the permanent director five months later on Aug. 1 by former U-M president Lee Bollinger. He has served as the president of the United States Olympic Committee, after having served on its board of directors for eight years, and is currently on the board of directors for the U.S. Olympic Foundation and National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame, Inc.

In April 2005, Martin received the United States Olympic Committee General Douglas MacArthur Award, the organization's highest award, honoring his leadership as acting president of the USOC (Feb. 2003-June 2004). He also received the 2005 Humanitarian Award from the Jewish Federation of Washtenaw County, its highest honor, and was named the 2000 Ann Arbor News Citizen of the Year for his service and contributions to the community.

Martin founded First Martin Corporation, a diversified real estate firm, in 1968 and is the founder and chairman of the board of Bank of Ann Arbor. He has served as president of the Washtenaw Land Conservancy, and was a founding board member of the Ann Arbor Public Schools Educational Foundation and the Washtenaw Technical Middle School, a charter high school at Washtenaw Community College.

An avid sailor, Martin served as president of the United States Sailing Association, the national governing body of the sport, from 1988-91. In 2003 he was awarded the Nathaniel G. Heereshoff Trophy for outstanding contributions to the sport of sailing in the United States.

Martin earned a bachelor of arts degree in 1962 from Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio, and a graduate degree in economics from the University of Stockholm, Sweden, in 1963. He received his Master's in Business Administration from Michigan in 1965. Martin has been a member of the board of directors of Wittenberg since 1994. He and his wife, Sally, reside in Ann Arbor and have two sons, Seth and Michael.
